An Accident on the Outskirts of Baltimore-Two Trains Try to Pass Each Other on the Same Track—The Locomotives Smashed and a Postal Car Telescoped, but no One

Seriously Injured.

Collision on the Baltimore & Potomac. The passengers on the limited express train on the Battimore & Potomac railroad, which arrived in this city last evening, were badly shaken up by a collision which occurred at Lafayatte station, Baltimore, with the north-bound train, which leaves Washington at 1:30 ochick. Owing to the collision the limited express was one hour and a half late. No one was seriously injured, the engineers and fremen having jumped from the locomotives. One of the firemen sprained his ankle. The engines were both badly damaged, and the nextsless on the sarthly and train was teleengines were both badly damaged, and the postal car on the north-bound train was telescoped by the tender of the engine. The accident occurred just after passing through the tunnel. The limited express train should have waited thirty seconds, as usual, for the other train to pass off the single track, but for some reason the delay was omitted. Neither of the trains was moving very rapidly. The following account has been received by telegraph:

Baltimone, Jan. 9.—A collision occurred this afternoon on the Baltimore & Potomae railroad at Lalayette station, what he city limits, the New York limited express from Washington colliding with a train which left Union depet at 3 o'clock for Washington. The engines of both trains were badly damaged, and the tender of the limited express forced back into the postal car, but heither passengers nor train men were injured beyond a few bruises. The accident occurred at a point where the double track through the city merges into a single track, and the south-bound train should have waited on the double track until the limited express passed. By some mishap the train for Washington ran on the single track about 100 yards, and before it could back, was run into by the limited express. The engineer of the south-bound train says the air-brakes would not work. At night the track was clear and trains running as usual.

of having been concerned in the tragedy. There were a great number of stories affost about the affair and it was said that a colored a an, who was wearing the watch, and a colored woman, wearing the ring, had been arrested. It was also stated that a colored woman, living near where the murder was committed, and leard some one cry out about the time the deed was done: "Oh, Babe, don't kill e! There were numerous other stories, es-cially among the colored people, all of whom emed to know a great deal about the affair. No real clue has yet been obtained. Referring to the published report that three policemen—two privates and a sorgeant—were standing to gother on a corner seven squares away from the scene of the murder at the time of its occurrence, it was stated by a sergeant that at the time of the control of the sergeant that at the time mentioned there were four privates and a sergeant together at Eleventh and R streets, but they were marching out to their beats, the limit of which was Fourteenth street, and as soon as they heard the news two of them started off at double-quick. The in-quest postponed from Thursday will be held to-day at the Fourth precinct station.

Convicted of Bigamy,

Convicted of Bigamy.

Simus McGowan Nicholas was placed on trial yesterday in the Criminal court before Chief-Justic: Cartler on the charge of bigamy.

In the mouth of September, 1863, the accused was matried to Mahnda Sanders, at the house of Mr. Peyton, by whom she was owned, at Charlottsville, Va. In 1873, they came to this city to live and cohabited as man and Castelm wife for several years. Subsequently, on the 14th of August, 1879, the defendant married equals. Hannah Winn in this city.
During the progress of the trial Mr. Williamson of the counsel for the defendant, desired to put in evidence the record of the Police court, to show that Malinda, the first wife, was of a quarrelsome, turbuleut disposition.

The Chief-Justice declined to allow it on the ground that it was a case of "for better or for rorse," and by it they must abide.

Mr. Williamson said they thought that they would be able to show that the prosecution was a "put-up job." His Honor replied that if it was consummated by a minister they would probably flud it avery serious affair, nd one difficult to escape from.

The defeuse then raised the point that the indictment was not good on the ground of a fatal variance in the name of the second woman. She was set down as Hannah Winn, while her correct name was Waynes. The court declined to sustain the point. His Honor ruled that if the parties married in Virginia while both were slaves, at that time it was invalid, but if after the legisla-ture of that State legalized marriages among freedmen ando when they were slaves, and these parties cohabited as man and wife and observed all the marital relations, it was a defacto marriage, and the prisoner perpetrated organy in entering into the second one. The jury returned a verdict of guilty, and a motion for a new trial was entered.

Italian Opera-Lucia di Lammermoor. Owing to the illness of Mr. Gottshalk, Mignon," announced for last evening, could ot be performed, and "Lucia di Lammermoor" as substituted. It is doubtful if there was a ingle person in the andience that was not de-ighted at the change, for though "Mignon" is death of hit, while "Lucia," on the contrary, is comparatively rurely produced. The music of this work is among the bost, if not the very host, of Donizett's compositions, and the score abounds in choice gens of melody. The principal part was in the hands of Mile. Litts, a lady of whose surpassingly pure soprano voice we have had occasion to speak yester-day. Last evening she fairly disarmed all criticism, and proved not only her lyris, but also her dramatic talents. In the third set, in which sie appears bereft of reason, her superb vocalization so completely carried away the audience that at the conclusion of the famous cavatina and aris a storm of aplause arose, she was twice called before the currain and fairly loaded with the choicest of bouquesand other floral designs, which rained down upon her from all sides. It was more than a triumph; it was a spentaneous ovation. Signor Baidanza as Edgardo was only passable. Signor Storti sang the part of Eurice with accustomed fluish, but his acting was inadequate and not up to his usual proficiency in that direction. Chora and archarts were in every direction. Chorus and orchestra were in every way worthy of commendation. At the matinee to-day "Il Trovatore" will be produced with Mile. Singer as Leonora, Mile. De Bolocca as Azneem, Signor Petrovich as Manifox and Signor Storti as Count Di Luna. In the avenue "Few;" will be performed with the evening "Fanst" will be performed, with Mile. National Theatre-Sethern. Next week there will be an opportunity for the devotees of Thalia to have their fill of the devotees of Thalia to have their fill of laughter and mirth, for Sotiern will appear at the National Theatre as Lord Dussdreary, David Garrick, Sam and "The Crushed Tragedian," all of them, with the exception of David Garrick, which is on the sentimental order, executiatingly funny. Of his recent performance of Sam, the New York Ecening Post says: "It is the veriest nousense, with a thread of story just strong enough to make it coherent, and a constant succession of furcical incidents. The skillful manner in which the actor applies the methods of light comedy the actor applies the methods of light comedy to the broadest farce blinds the spectator to the absurdity and emprisess of the play, and almost succeeds in elevating some of the most ridiculous scenes into the regions of common sense and probability. Sam, the brother of Dandreary, is now very nearly as well known to the play-going public as is his stuttering and inconsequential lordship himself. He is the incarnation of impudence. His assurance smatchless, but in his most reckless and au-acious moments he preserves an elegance of manner which exempts him from the charge of vulgarity." Seats can now be secured.

It is all so widely farcical and so utterly inconsequential that one ceases to look ahead, but joins in its laughter. One thing may be meationed to the credit of the piece: With all its broad farce and humor there is not one dubious word or situation in it. It is something to hurdrover, but not to study. And such laughlaugh over, but not to study. And such laugh-ter as last night's has not been board at the Brooklyn Park since Harrigan and Hart were

The retiring Commander, James Cross, adessed the members of the Post as follows: CORRADIS: The chair that I have occuped for past year I am now about to vacate but I can I leave it without thanking you, one and all, for the past year I am now about to vacate, but I cannot leave it without thankling you, one and all, for the kindness, torbeavance and courtesy that I have received at your hands. I have the pleasure to state that during the past year the Post has increased about 400 per cent., which is a better condition than it has been in for several years, which is entirely owing to the united and zealous efforts of the comrades. For no matter what is said by any one, this is as if always was, the banner Post, as the adjutant's reports show.

I sincerely hope this prosperity will still go on, and it certainly can; there is plenty of material in this city for it.

THE TRUE STATE

WOOLEN MARKET

With the single exception of iron, the rise in prices of wool has been greater than in any her product. The fabrics that are now he ing consumed do not show any advance it rice, as they were made out of last year' products of wool. The advance in Low and Medium Wools has been from 40 to 70 per ent. In Delaine and Fleece Wools nearly 00 per cent. That these prices are not spec dative can be best inferred from the fact hat wool-growers have not for seven years ast made a dollar on their wool crop, and in nany instances failed to shear their sheep, as the prices realized DID NOT PAY FOR SHEARING. The past year's crop will be sed in the manufacture of goods this year, nd as such houses as FAULKNER, PAGE & Co. OMEROY & PEMURER and others of the largest ommission houses in the world have bought at an average advance of 70 per cent, for the use of their mills, and not for the purposes. peculation, it is certain REYOND THE POS SIBILITY OF A DOUBT, that all grades of voolen fabrics will be at least TWENTY-FIVE PER CENT. HIGHER NEXT SEASON. In Lineus and Cottons that are used in the manufacture of garments the advance aver-

The great demand for Ready-Made Cloth ng, owing to the superior manner in which the better grades are now being made, has aused an advance in the price of labor of fully 20 per cont.

We have now on hand fully FORTY THOU SAND DOLLARS' WORTH MORE GOODS THAN WE HAVE EITHER THE DESIRE OR THE ROOM TO CARRY, and in order to pose of them we shall, prior to taking au inventory, offer the entire stock at a uniform reduction of FIFTEEN PER CENT. from last with's prices.

This may appear unwise and inconsistent to many. We deem it best, bowever, to give our patrous the benefit of low prices whenever we an, as the increased patronage we secure hereby amply repays any sacrifice we may make.

We advise the public to buy now for next
